

It's a hyper-connected world. So many ways to try to find what we're looking for. Promises and opportunities right at our fingertips. Real estate, especially, offers an endless array of possibilities.

Navigating all of this and getting to the right place is the trick. It's more than contact lists and pricing metrics. More than knowing the cross streets and hidden gems.

We do a lot of things, but in the end, what a good realtor really does is help you

Connect.

With the year coming to a close, I think about how my job is so much more than just a list of completed transactions.

I think of the clients I've had the privilege of working with—the stressful situations, the celebrations, the new friends and the lifelong friends. I'm fortunate to have so many amazing people in my life. For this, I am truly Grateful.

It's gut check time. Is this the right deal? Do we pull the trigger?
