Tim Collom's vibrant, color-rich canvases celebrate his love affair with the iconic beauty of California. His work draws inspiration from Lake Tahoe, Carmel, the San Francisco Bay Area, the Central Valley, and his hometown of Sacramento, among many areas of the state.

On a journey that began as a hobbyist painter, Tim has become a widely collected and beloved artist. His work is found in over 75 collections within California and beyond, and is often described as affirmative and upbeat.

Tim is generous in his support of community and philanthropic efforts. As his popularity has grown, several well-known consumer brands and organizations have commissioned his work for promotional purposes.
